Forecast for Saturday 10 Oct 2020

Weather: Some clear spells overnight, but with showers too and, perhaps some more persistent rain and summit sleet over northern mountains. Then a generally bright day with some sunny spells, but quite a lot of showers too, these mainly across northern and western ranges and a touch wintry over the higher summits with the risk of hail and thunder, especially in the afternoon.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: Around 40% across northern and western ranges with occasional cloud above 600m, but chance closer to 80% in the afternoon across eastern ranges with more patchy cloud below the summits.

Visibility: Very good, but only a few kilometres in rain and showers, but less than a kilometre in any wintriness.
